Launch Site H1, which includes the probable support/control facility for Launch Group H, is located in a patch of woods adjacent to a support area in an open field. The site contains a launch silo with a graded earthen access. A probable arch-roofed building SE of the silo, with an adjacent excavation containing a probable control building, appears to be the start of an L-shaped electronic facility. The support area, containing at least 8 buildings, is about 400 yards SE of the launch site. Two possible buildings are in the woods about 300 yards NW of the support area.
